The Class of 1993

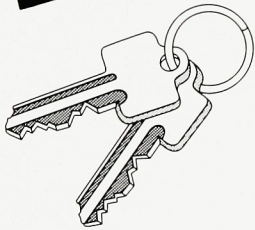

Honors George Mitchell

The Class of 1993 is happy to dedicate this year's MIRROR to a man who has truly devoted himself to the North Shore Country Day School. George Mitchell has given his time and energy keeping North Shore running smoothly and looking exquisite. He has done and continues to do a tremendous service in maintaining the entire school, a task which is made much harder by all the students. In an altruistic sense George Mitchell is here to help on any occasion: from unlocking the Upper School building at eleven o'clock at night for the forgotten bookbag to trying to prevent the Seniors from freezing to death in the homeroom. We would like George Mitchell to know that his 33 years of work at North Shore are greatly appreciated and his devotion is respected by the school community and especially by the Class of 1993.

Bonding? What's that?

The Freshman Outdoor Education trip was quite an experience. Early Thursday morning, we piled into the school bus for our two-day adventure to Shawanasee. The "grueling" two-hour trip was not that bad. Being a wonderfully creative group, we amused ourselves by seeing how many truck drivers would honk at us.

Finally, we arrived to the smell of horse manure. As soon as we were settled in, half went horseback riding while others encountered the camp's team course. What a day.

The next morning we were thrown into a seven mile long canoe trip. Some enjoyed the scenery while others got into it pursuing a "Quest for the Bridges." We all treasured our "bonding" experience and the new friendships we made.

—Dana Motley

Sophomores Stay and Work

As in years past, we, the sophomore class, went to the Jonquil Hotel. When we first arrived, the coordinator of the hotel told us an enlightening story of Chicago's poor. Off to work we went, when he concluded. We were engaged in many activities that will aid others. Some of the things we did included laying floor boards, painting, and building wood blocks for children. Unlike the Outdoor Ed. trips, we did not get to spend the night sleeping next to one another. After a day of dirty work, we were able to go back to our wonderful homes and shower; a concept not understood by the other classes.

The next day we did more of the same. Everyone had fun regardless of their activity. All in all, our Outdoor Education trip brought our class together through helping others.

—Luisa Godoy

Juniors Learn the Ropes

The Junior class's Outdoor Education Trip brought together what was once a diverse group. We went to a ropes course in Covenant Harbor, Lake Geneva. The first day we played cooperation games; one of which was "spider web." Everyone contributed to succeed at these games.

That night we played a very humorous game of volleyball. I continually tried to serve so that the ball went more than two inches. After failing at that, we roasted marshmallows and got acquainted with each other. For entertainment, almost everyone went on a hike through the woods.

The next day we challenged ourselves on the ropes courses. Most of us were in tune with the natural, woodsy environment. However, Kamaria did sit down after going on a ropes-course to file her nails. Surely every member of the Junior class will be able to look back on this year's trip and laugh.

—Katie Davis

The Final Frontier

Instead of venturing into the woods to play “bonding” games, we, the senior class, traveled to the north side of Chicago (quite a long trip) to work at Habitat for Humanity. It was an adventure to say the least.

On the morning of September 10, we arrived at school cheery and dressed in old clothes. Having to wait an hour and a half for our bus to arrive lessened our cheery moods. When we finally arrived and divided into small groups, we installed insulation. For those of you unfamiliar with insulation, it’s itchy. Small particles fly at you and they cling to your skin. Great stuff.

The most enjoyable part of our trip was sleeping on a gym floor and awakening to the echo of Benjie’s rhythmic snoring. What a treat for us.

Nourished with donuts, we began our second day at Humanity. Lifting dry wall and making window brackets filled our day. As our last outdoor education trip ended, we all bid a fond farewell to this bonding business.

—Kelli Stebel

Homecoming

There were great festivities surrounding Homecoming. The halls were decorated, cheers at Morning Ex., and don't forget the Homecoming dance. Even though the Raiders lost, everyone enjoyed Homecoming nevertheless!

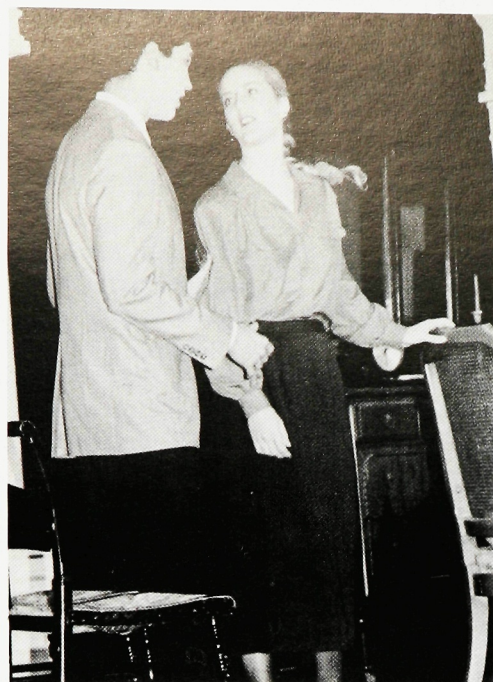

'92

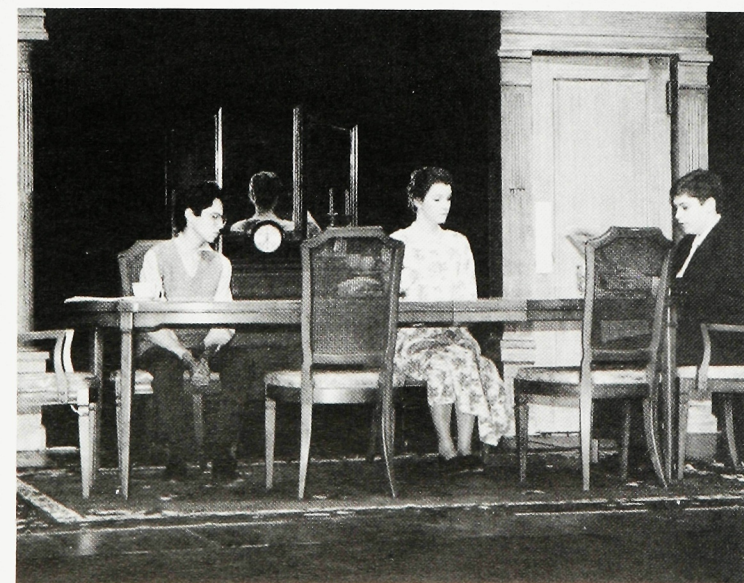

Our North Shore Raiders football team made a great effort at the Homecoming game, but they were trampled 42-20 by soon to be undefeated Williams Bay. North Shore came to life during the second half. Erwin Godoy (the soccer captain who had only been playing football for a few days) dazzled the crowd by scoring two touchdowns.

There was a great crowd at Homecoming '92 supporting the Raiders through the game. Students, faculty and alumni tried to match the enthusiasm of the cheerleaders of Williams Bay.

The Fall Show

THE DINING ROOM by A.R. Gurney, this year's fall show, intrigued many who came to the fairly well attended performances. With no basic plot, revolving characters and a script that called for only one stage setting (predictably the dining room) the show provided to be a challenge for the cast of eight. Brian Denesha came down with the stomach flu two days before the performance and caused his understudy Tom Rankin to go into an all out panic learning lines. Luckily, the ailing Brian made it the performance which went off without any large problems except for that turkey. What was the deal with that paper mache turkey? The world may never know . . .

Halloween

Ghouls, Goblins, Ghosts, and other scary creatures. What day could it be? Groundhog Day? Work Day? Dress like a Faculty Member Day? No, of course not. It's Halloween!!! The usual plethora of costumes paraded around the auditorium for the annual Halloween Parade. As always, there were princesses, witches, monsters, super heroes, and a very cute horse who had some trouble maneuvering the stairs. Along with several poems and stories, Mrs. Gibson led us in an almost stirring rendition of "Skin and Bones." All in all, a pretty average Halloween for the whole darn school.

Work Day

Work Day—that day in the Fall when we don't have classes and the whole school plays Duck-Duck-Goose and drinks apple juice. In addition to dancing and having fun, the purpose of Work Day is to rake all the leaves off the campus. In the morning the Upper School divided into groups and raked the lawns of Senior Citizens. One lucky group arrived at a house and were promptly informed that they were not needed. Not to be discouraged, they drove to another house and began raking with fury. Later, everyone ate lunch with their buddies. After chow time the Kindergarten/Senior combo planted flower bulbs. Odd. These bulbs never appear in the springtime but it was fun anyways. The grade combos raked around campus. After a rousing game of Duck-Duck-Goose, the Upper School adjourned to the auditorium to watch Mr. Almquist's traditional Work Day video. A productive, amusing, and somewhat exhausting day for everyone.

—Katie Whittlesey

Interim

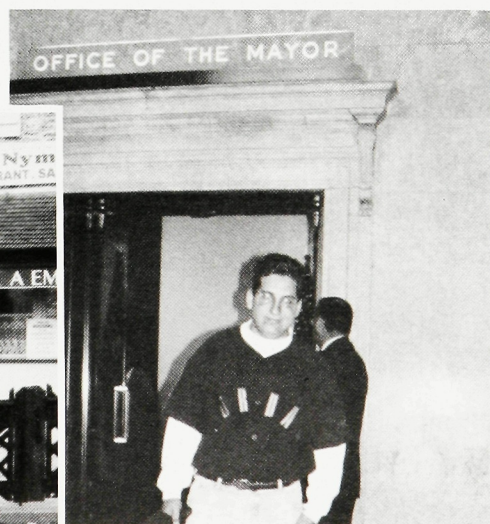

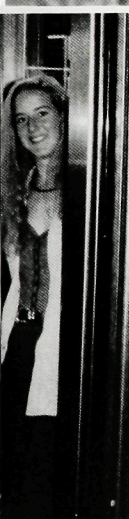

Interim Week is often looked upon as a welcome reprieve from the rigors of Upper School life. Traveling outside the classroom during the first week of November, many Upper Schoolers learned much more than they would in a normal week of school. Some went as far as France, Texas, and Florida while others ventured much closer to home; working on campaigns, making films or pursuing a plethora of other choices. A few weeks later, the student body gathered for the traditional Interim Night. As was the case last year, Interim Night was poorly attended by parents. Where are they? Are they boycotting Interim Night? Anyway, the library was nicely decorated with each group having a table or a room or, in the case of Culture Shock Chicago, stuck in the back of the Library. All in all, Interim was a great experience for the Upper School (especially those who went to France, lucky ducks).

Some of the Interim Week Projects included:

- Habitat for Humanity
- Mural Design
- Election '92
- Culture Shock Chicago
- Marine Bio Florida Trip
- Film Making
- Cultural Trip to France
- Outward Bound

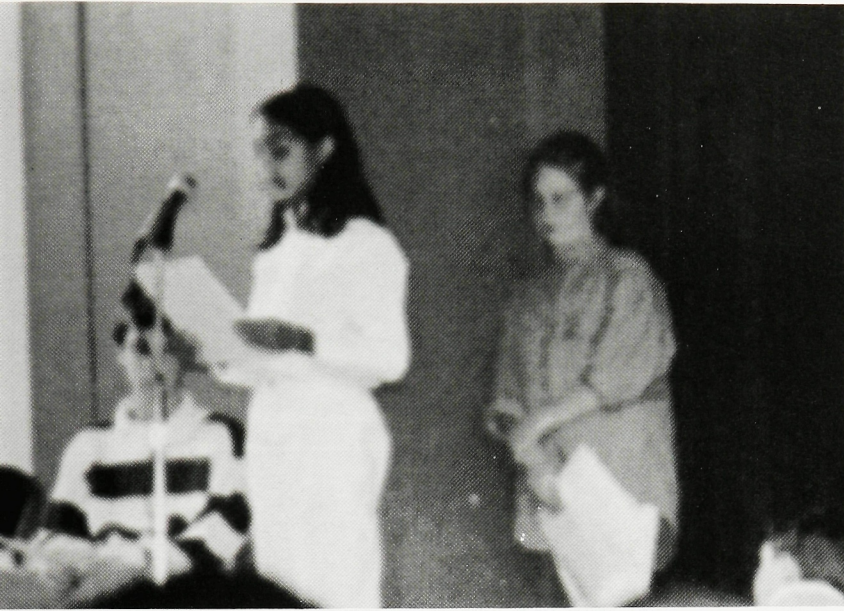

Madrigal Feaste

Wow. This year's Feaste had a lot of cool changes. The first major change was the new director of Choral Music. Two thumbs up, Q! Secondly, the majority of the madrigals were sung by a small group with the rest of the chorus participating in an occasional song. Erik Sosa thoroughly entertained us all as the jester! Nice tights! Benjie de la and Elizabeth were fabulous as the Lord and Lady of the manor. Overall, this was an awesome show with lots of enthusiasm.

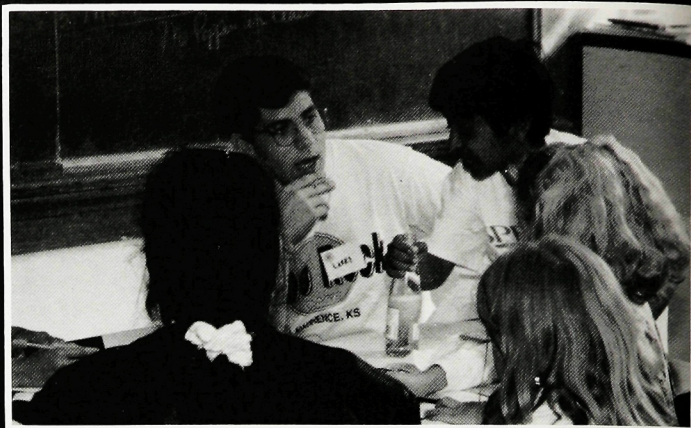

Thanksgiving

Differing from years past, the Lower and Middle school students performed a fictional story about giving. The Upper School Barbershop accompanied the munchkins with wonderful singing interludes. Perhaps the most striking part about this year's Thanksgiving Morning Ex. was the lovely poetry read by students from all three divisions. The Kindergarten especially enjoyed it, judging from the amount of noise they made. The new Upper School club, SHAPE, held a food drive weeks before Thanksgiving to collect canned goods for the needy of the Chicagoland area. All in all, a festive turkey day for the whole darn school.

Morning Exercise

What words can we use to describe Morning Ex.? Interesting, educational, boring, fun, time well spent, time not spent well. Depending upon whom one asks about Morning Ex., the responses vary. There are those who dread Morning Ex., those who enjoy it, and in true North Shore fashion, those who are indifferent. To say the least, though, this year's Morning Exercises were, shall we say, different. From Mrs. Trainer's Sumo wrestling, various singing groups, Interim Week groups to Buddy Day, the student body was slightly entertained. As a SENIOR the best part about Morning Ex. is our Kindergarteners. I remember days of silence at Morning Ex., but with a Kindergartener, one can get away with talking. The biggest plus, though, is when your Kindergartener has to go to the bathroom and you can get out of Morning Ex. for a few minutes. So, don't despair underclassmen! Morning Ex. improves with age.

—Kelli Stebel

Dance

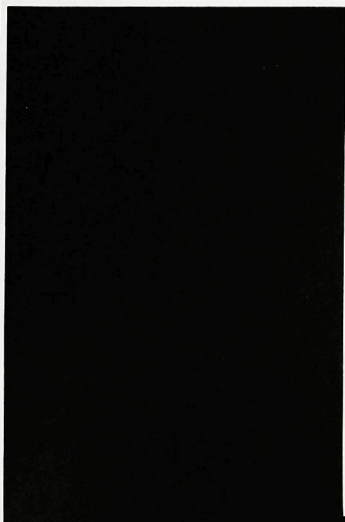

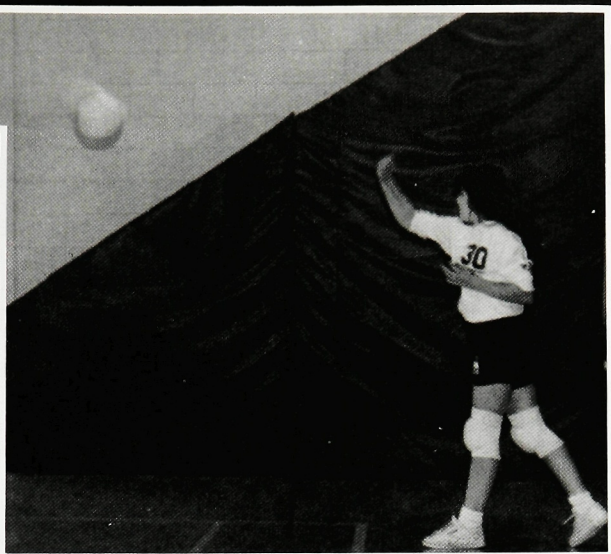

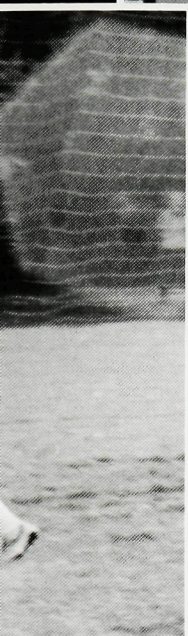

In the age of political correctness, North Shore has changed the annual Santa Claus Dance to the Holiday Dance. With an obvious western theme this year, everyone showed off their dancing talents while alumni, teachers, and staff looked on. By far the best and most enjoyable dance was the Hokey-Pokey by the Senior/Kindergarten combo. Aren't they cute? No, not the Kindergarteners, the Seniors, aren't they cute shaking all about? Oh well, a happy HOLIDAY Dance for everyone.

After strenuous practices our team managed to win 2 games while losing 6 gracefully. All in all, we had a great time. It may be hard to believe but our team had a lot of spirit. Many thanks to our great captain, Greg Jacobs, who provided the inspiration.

Practices could not have been more physically demanding. Our coaches Jim Deuble, Eric Lund-ing, Mac McCarty and Jay Bach pushed us really hard especially during the obstacle course and the diligent bag drill.

As a SENIOR, having participated for three years with the Raider Football Team, it will be sad to leave. Even though our team always had few numbers, we always had a positive attitude. Our spirit never let us down even when we were losing 30 points in the first quarter.

Our games which were almost always held on Saturdays, had pretty good turnouts. Good luck to next year's team!

"Those who have the will to win cannot be beaten!" could be heard for miles as we, the Upper School Girls' Field Hockey Team, shouted our cheer before each game. We did have the will to win—we just couldn't find the way. With five returning varsity players from the awe-inspiring 1990 team in which we were 3rd in State, the 1992 hockey season looked promising. However, plagued with a plethora of injuries, more names were on the injury list than on the roster! At one point one-third of the team watched the game from the sidelines on crutches! One could probably guess our record was not that great—ahem—2 and 15—ahem. Well, we tried not to mention it. Although we had a pretty dismal record, the season was really fun—trust us. Everyone improved individually thanks to our coach Edee Madsen and Annie Aggens, our assistant coach. We will dearly miss Beth, Lisa, and Angeline as they end their respective hockey careers at North Shore after playing since the sixth grade. Instead of being labeled "a rebuilding year," next year will be a winning year; a year in which the field hockey team can hang another banner in the gym! Yeh!!!

P.A.C.E.—Positive Attitude Changes Everything was the motto that cheered the girls' varsity tennis team this fall. Led by coach Jenny Roth and co-captains Jenny Edidin and Kyky Knowles, the team had some difficulties in the beginning of the season on and off the court. However, the team displayed tremendous spirit and eventually showed great improvement. Although there was quite a bit of switching around for positions, the team as a whole was flexible and eased into their new positions well. Having a positive and supportive attitude, some members drove hours to tournaments (in a not-so-comfy van) to cheer on their fellow teammates in below freezing weather. They made up new and creative cheers to keep their spirits up. Playing in 90 degree and 30 degree weather, in high and freezing winds, one can say they had a lot of stamina. Although Girls' Tennis didn't win a match, this team deserves some recognition and support from others. Best of luck to the 1993 Girls' Tennis Team. Maybe they'll learn to take "P.A.C.E." more seriously.

With only three upperclassmen, this year's volleyball team was made of many newcomers. The team had twelve players which is just enough to have a JV and a Varsity team. Because they had many new players, the youngens got a lot of varsity playing experience. Despite the losing record (seen at the bottom of the page, try to think of the effort though!) the team improved as a whole. In some cases improvement could be measured by the day. Wow! All the team members felt immensely proud and happy with the season. A big thank you to our coaches, Cindy Pozzi and North Shore Alum Gwen Rohlen. An especially big thank you to Richard Wu. He practiced every day as if he was on the team as well. With all the new blood, one can expect great things to come from Girls' Volleyball next season!

Let's break precedent and start by writing the facts. Just going by the numbers, we won three, tied one, and lost ten. Believe it or not, these are pretty good numbers for North Shore Soccer.

Besides this seemingly limitless potential, the many freshmen gave our team something long overdue: a sense of optimism? Hope? Wait a second, weren't these words supposed to be an oxymoron when used in conjunction with North Shore soccer?

Overall, though our soccer team's coin toss record went down the drain (Erwin insists that it's all James' fault) we still improved considerably. After all is said and done, only one inevitable question lingers in my mind, to the brink of collapse: why, how, what quirk of fate did Eric Lunding not receive the "coach of the year" award? We thought he was a shoe-in. The world may never know.

Upper School Boys' Basketball

The men, well maybe not men but certainly not boys, of the Upper School jumped out to the court this winter and had a decent season, at least by North Shore standards. The team was lead by captains Greg Jacobs and Scott Shlaes and not to forget the inspirational Coach Eric Lund-ing. The JV improved steadily as the Varsity had its ups and downs. By far the best game was against Mooseheart when the team clobbered Mooseheart into small steaks, 80-38.

But there is more to the boys' b-ball team than their record! Inundated with interesting folks, it is only proper to mention a few of these great people. Of course, the addition of two exchange students added spice to this team and not to mention the Seniors. Even those hearty souls who felt practice wasn't strenuous enough decided to participate in P.E. basketball and show their stuff off.

Off the court many players seemed annoyed at the lack of support of the team when they were down. When seemingly sincere senior asked a player, "Why do you keep losing?" "North Shore's students are such fair-weather fans." Ah, well so are Cub fans. Any way, b-ball this year was pretty average for the boys of the Upper School.

Although this may not have been the most winning season for the Upper School Girls' Basketball team, the girls, who were led by seniors Alexis Copland and Lisa Rosen, struggled in the beginning but came through in the end.

With a fresh crop of underclassmen, the beginning of the season looked promising. Although a few minor setbacks might have thrown the team's record, spirit, on the other hand, seemed to be high. The girls, like other North Shore sports teams, suffered from attendance problems at their games. Come on! Where's that old Raider Spirit? Fight, fight, fight for the purple and the white and all that jazz? Oh well, maybe next year.

Anyhow, the biggest triumph of the year was beating Holy Trinity in the first round of the regional games. Although the second round was lost to Roycemore, the victory against Holy Trinity was well deserved; especially for the graduating seniors.

Another added plus for this year's team was the 3-point shot of junior Katie Whittlesey. She advanced to the fourth round of the competition. Yeah Katie!

With the loss of only two seniors and the growing experience of the younger players, it is possible that next year's team could add another banner to the Mac Gym.

Middle School Boys' Football

When the Middle School football team lost the first game, everyone said that this season was going to be a very long one. They ate their words when we had a very successful season.

The '92 season went by very quickly. After the opening day loss to Northfield Park District, we practiced harder. Giving 110%, we wanted to win the next game very badly. Our hard work paid off and we came back with a win.

Our biggest game was against Joseph Sears. We had not beaten them in five long years. In true Raider style, we pulled ahead in the fourth quarter to win 7-6. We were so happy that we poured Gatorade on our wonderful coach, Eric Lunding.

All in all, it was a great season. On to Upper School Football!

Middle School Girls' Field Hockey

The Middle School Field Hockey Team had a great year. A sixth/seventh team and an eighth grade team challenged other teams around the area, even as far as Milwaukee. The sixth/seventh team had an admirable record of 2-3, whereas the eighth grade team was undefeated. The highlight of the season was the championship game versus University of Lake. The game was tied 1-1, when the girls went into a flick-off. The other goalie resembled something close to Jabba the Hut, so everyone was a bit nervous. Let's just say, it was quite an intense flick-off. The flick-off score was tied 2-2, and it was North Shore's last chance. The shot was fired ... and IT WENT IN! A very successful and winning season for the Middle School Girls ended with winning a championship.

Middle School Boys' Soccer

The boys of the Middle School worked hard this season as they looked towards playing on the prestigious Upper School Soccer team. Yeah right. Anyway, they did have an awesome season. Jay Bach, the wonderful coach, gave the boys a lot of inspiration. Perhaps the best game was against Roycemore when the mighty Middle Schoolers slaughtered them 3-0. As always, as the season continued, progress was made. Now let's hope they don't forget everything they learned during the off season. Anyway, 'twas a happy time on the playing field this fall for the boys of the Middle School.

Although few in numbers, the Middle School girls had a fun season on the volleyball court. By learning bumps, sets, and spikes improvement could be measured game by game. Though the record may not reflect the enthusiasm the team had, they tried their hardest every game. With the help of Coach Pozzi and Coach Hanover, the girls learned the meaning of the word teamwork and sweat. Next year's season will be even better!

Middle School Boys' Basketball

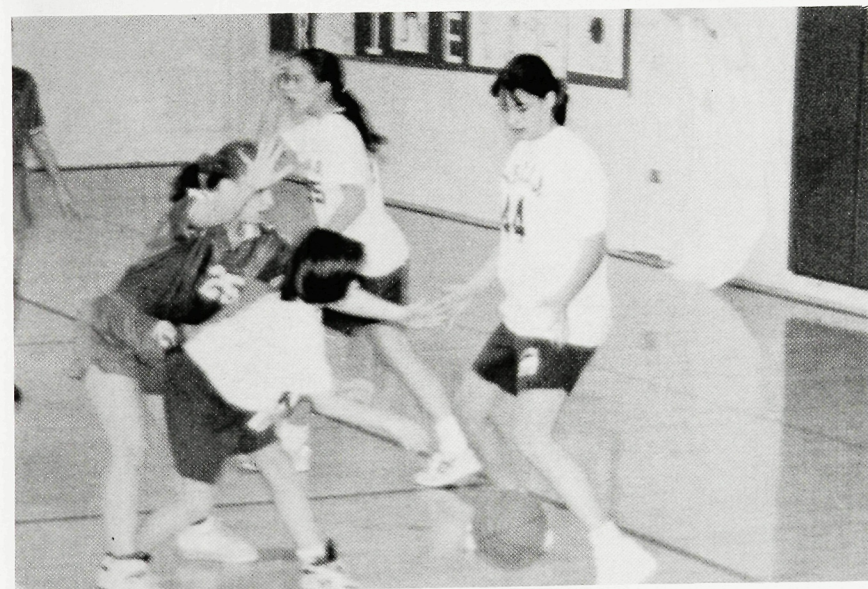

As always, the boys of the Middle School ran out to the court this winter to learn the art of basketball. Coached by Jim Deuble, the Michael Jordan wanna be's improved steadily throughout the season. Dribbling, passing, trying to dunk with their pre-adolescent bodies, scoring, winning some games, losing some games, learning about each other, and working as a team randomly sums up the experience of being a member of this year's Middle School boys' b-ball team.

Middle School Girls' Basketball

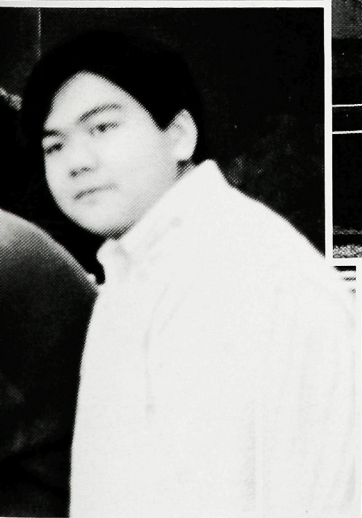

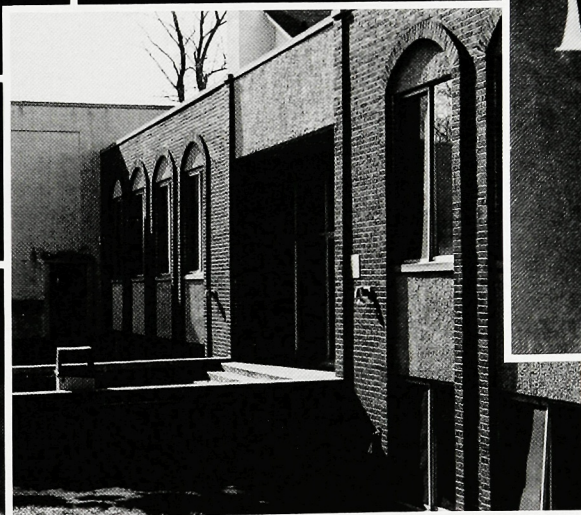

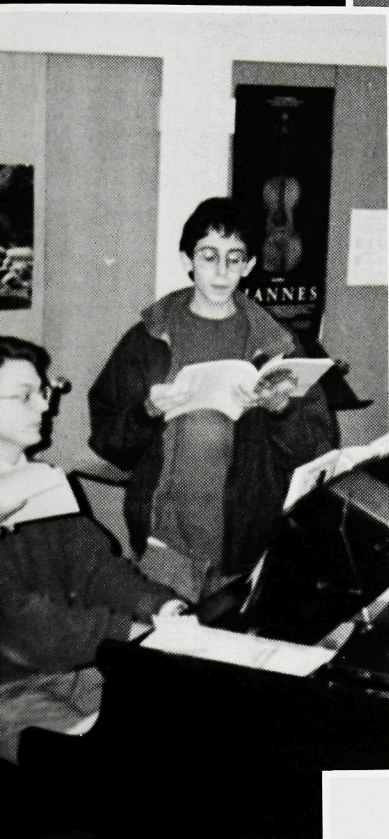

The girls of the Middle School had a pretty good basketball season this year. Learning the fundamentals of this timeless sport, the girls put together a decent team which gave some pretty steep competition. These female Michael Jordan wanna be's had a lot of spirit which showed during a few tough games. Hopefully, the girls will practice during the off season so they can have an undefeated season next year.

MS Student Council

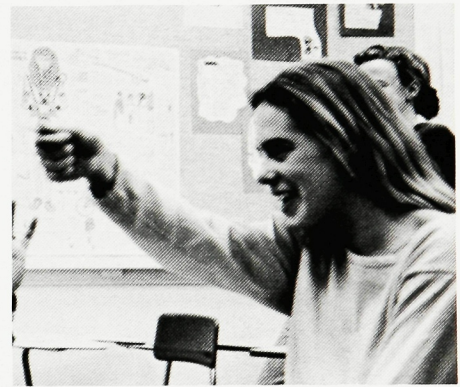

This year's Middle School Student Council, headed by Faculty Sponsor Cindy Hooper, has set a real example for the entire Middle School. Elected officials from each grade met weekly to discuss the usual array of topics: dress code, student dances, fundraising and the like. In the end the members learned a lot about how a governmental group works.

U.S. Student Council

This was a rather uneventful year for the 1992-93 Upper School Student Council. Led by President Benjie de la Fuente, Vice Presidents Greg Jacobs and Katie Davis, and Treasurer Scott Shales, and Secretary Erik Sosa, the group met on Monday afternoons to discuss the pressing issues of the students. With plenty of enthusiastic juniors and sophomores, the future of the Upper School Student Council is certainly bright.

North Shore Chorus = Great Singing

What a wonderful time first-year director Michael Querio has had this year with the U.S. Chorus! With a healthy-sized group of more than thirty students, "Q" (who's actually a pretty funny guy) molded a bunch of flesh and bones into a decent music-making unit. The group performed a Fall Concert (perhaps a new tradition at North Shore?) and performed for the annual Madrigal Feaste and for H.M.S. Pinafore, perhaps in anticipation of its big Spring Concert. Indeed, the U.S. Chorus successfully continued its time-honored tradition of good music this year.

a quiet year for THE DSJ

A year generally free of controversy for the DSJ. After bursting out of the gate with an early October issue, the DSJ staff remained quiet (all the while scheming) through the holidays. However, with the added talent and enthusiasm of Faculty Advisor Michael Conroy's Journalism Students, the North Shore's humble little publication was back in the saddle with the new year.

MIRROR STAFF , 93

It's the 1992-93 MIRROR Staff! Everyone please rise and give us a standing ovation for producing this wonderful piece of memorabilia. Our intelligence combined could knock down entire cities! But then our insanity, individual quirks, and all around craziness could probably do the same too. Let's take a walk down to the Publications' Office and meet each lovely member of our staff.

First and foremost, we have to mention our fearless leader, Editor-in-Chief Stefanie Freeman. If it were not for Stefanie, the yearbook would have never been completed. Her patience in dealing with Ray, our treasured Herff Jones representative, is truly outstanding. Not to say Stefanie isn't wacked out . . . she has been known to walk around aimlessly in the Upper School searching for pictures or other members of the staff. We seemed to always have attendance problems at our meetings. Kudos for Stefanie!

Speaking of our other SENIORS, Benjie de la Fuente was known to peak in the office once in a while as Business Manager. Benjie was awesome dealing with Stuart Rogers and soliciting ads from businesses, even Tombstone Pizza. But there is more to Benjie than his talent as Business Manager . . . He had this great habit of filling in punch lines and telling humorous stories to cheer us up from those long hours in the office. The only problem we had with Benjie was his habit of treating the Publications' Office as his living room.

Since we just talked about Benjie, now is the perfect time to bring up Betty Fisher, Photographer extraordinaire. Betty could be seen at most school events clicking away. Then she would hide away in the Dark Room developing pictures feverishly. The best quality about Betty, though, was her ability to keep the refrigerator stocked with Diet Coke. Even when one coke exploded all over the fridge, Betty graciously cleaned it, and it has never looked better.

Now we come to our copy editor Kelli Stebel. Although she was first known as the "Grammarless Wonder," Kelli came through and provided us with some excellent and at times humorous copy. Kelly got the job done and at the same time she supplied the stressed out staff with entertainment.

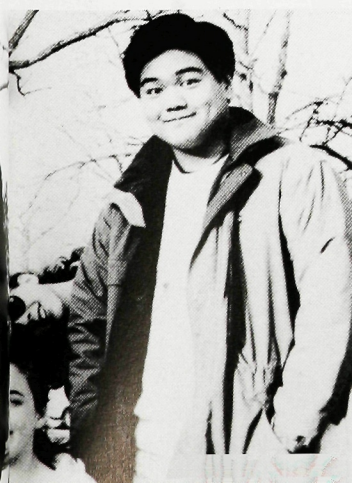

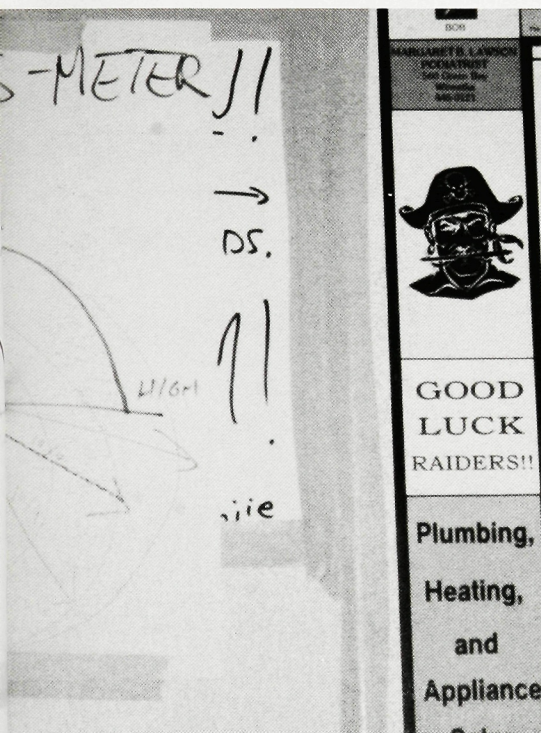

In the words of our own yearbook advisor, Amy Peters, messing with Kelli was described as, "easy, tempting, and fun all at the same time," and it truly was. Apart from leaving previously melted ice cream sundaes in the freezer for exceptionally long periods, Kelli's work was greatly appreciated.

We all know that you love the SENIOR editors the most, but we had some exceptional underclassmen this year. One such treasured underclassman, Nat Durbin, proved to be our own little Superboy. He supplied us with hours of nonstop picture taking. It could be said that he worked harder than any of us. Considering the loss of a camera, the breaking of a camera, and the misplacement of many roles of film, Nat really did know how to get the job done.

Next, we come to Carrie Goldstein. Carrie was most appreciated when she worked on layouts. Her handwriting was so big that it seemed to overpower the page and tended to confuse "Grammar Wonder." Carrie was also great to have around because she always went to White Hen when someone felt the need for munchies.

The final member of our staff is our faithful Copy Assistant Katie Davis. Although some of us have vague memories of Katie (she seemed to avoid the Office) Katie diligently identified Middle and Lower Schoolers and bugged people to turn in their copy. Eventually Katie will have to learn how to fit copy. As with her avoidance of the Office, she avoided learning the tricks of pica sizes . . . what a big (sarcastic) loss for her.

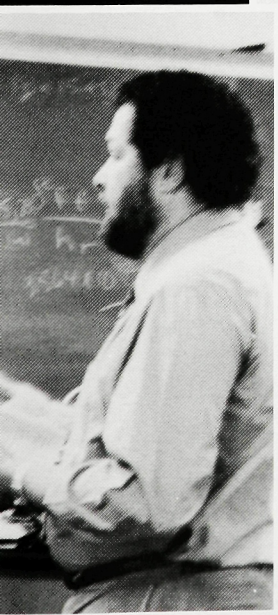

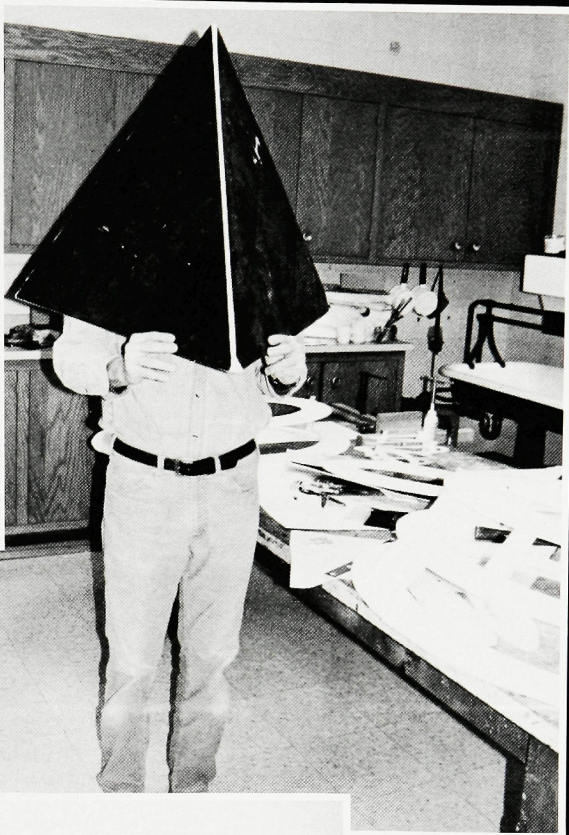

With the working ethic of our staff, you might think we didn't need any help, but without the help of the following people, MIRROR '93 would not have been the book you are holding. Big thanks go out to: John Almquist, Luisa Godoy, Dana Motley, Catherine Kim, Kyky Knowles, Amy Peters, Tom Rankin, Annie Stebbins, Scott Shlaes, Erik Sosa, and Katie Whittlesey.

What do we like and what will we be? Read and you will see! Olympic Gymnasts Jamie Maltman and Rachel Newman will be swinging from a star. Author Jacob Ringer joins the sports teams for an occasional afternoon while author Ben Bezark spends his leisure time as a carpenter building houses. Architect Jack Kenoe, a professional swimmer, often meets Jack Meadow happy underwater as a scuba diver. Ballerina Edie McClenahan and Andy Horwitz a Lawyer (soon to be Judge and then President) likes to stop in Kendall Wirtz's restaurants where she is very busy as a waitress. The world offers so many possibilities for Anne Levy, Rebecca Ochs-Mercer, and Andy Millars that they are still undecided about their professional future.

In the third grade we do lots of fun stuff. Each morning we do cursive and tell a riddle. In science we get to do experiments you can eat. In math we're learning fractions now. We learned our multiplication tables up to 12. We have an estimation game and a game called "Where in the World" that we play every week. Each week someone is in charge of this game. We also have "Star of the Week." The person who is the star of the week brings something that is special to them and gets their picture taken. There is a constitution of the third grade which we wrote the first week of school. Some of the rules include: No being mean or rude or hurting people's feelings, no tattling unless you have to, and no clubs unless everyone is included. We do lots of books reports.

A favorite subject in third grade is Native American Indians. We have partners. Jennie Star: "My partner and I are making Indian moccasins." We read Indian books, make shields and crafts.

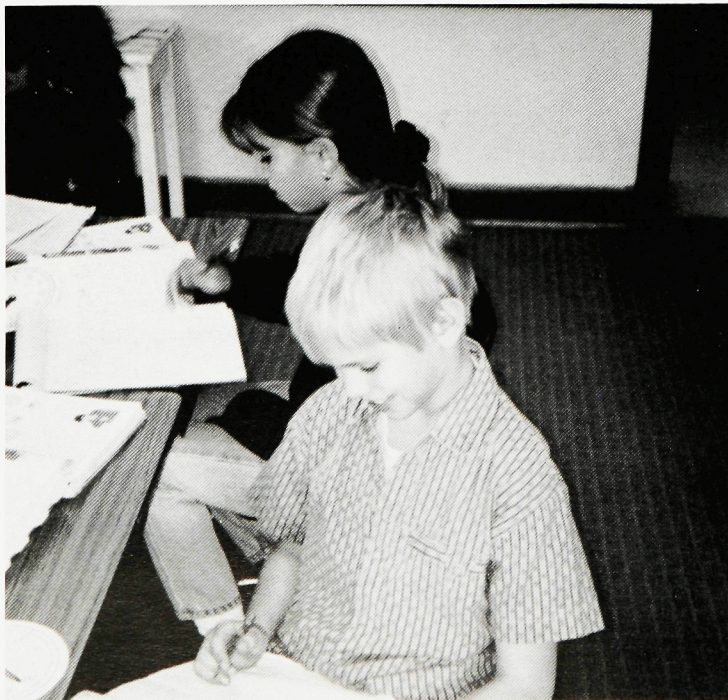

When asked about third grade, students exclaimed, "Put it this way, we love school!"

Fifth Graders remember this year at North Shore as a time of firsts. For this, the Class of 2000, the privilege of being the leaders of Lower School has become a marvelous opportunity for them to display their incredible leadership skills. Being responsible for Afternoon Ex., Pride, and their Kindergarten buddies, these twenty-five 5th graders have been outstanding role models. The fifth graders have set a very high standard of behavior and following the school's motto, "Live and Serve."

Fifth Grade is also a year for putting all the states and capitals on the U.S. map, writing an abstract noun book, taking weekly tests, and giving book talks. Fifth graders study etymology, write an investigative piece and keep math and social studies binders.

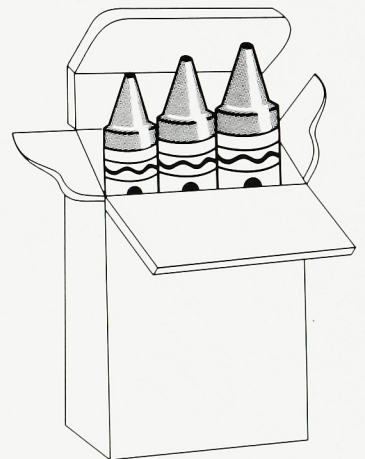

But the 5th grade is more than firsts and leadership. It is a time to exchange ideas in the weekly meetings and work together in the daily cooperative groups.

Favorite Sports Teams: Bulls, Orlando Magic, White Sox, Baltimore Thunder and the Bears

Favorite Foods: Everything and anything CHOCOLATE

Favorite TV Shows: "Saturday Night Live," "Life Goes On," "The Wonder Years," "The Simpsons," and "Northern Exposure."

In the beginning Sixth Graders felt . . . nervous, weird, frightened, different, lost, embarrassed and uptight.

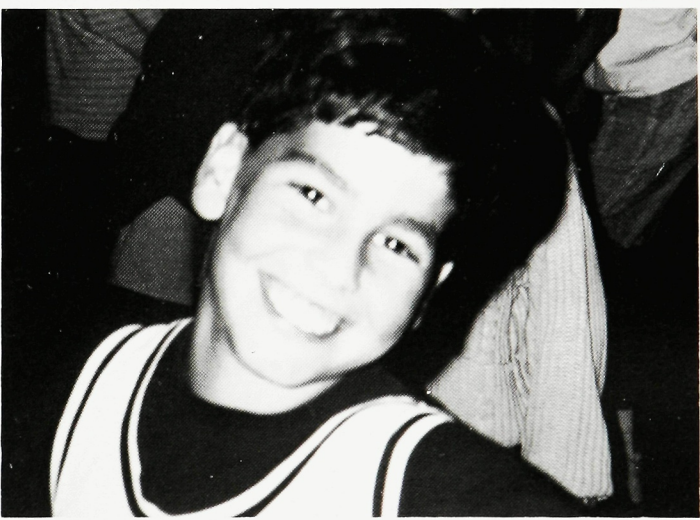

After a few months as one student said, "I love school and I enjoy our experiences. It's fun learning new things and being at North Shore."

Best Memory of Sixth Grade: Mrs. Zeien's osmosis story. Mrs. Voight as a "Michael Jackson Want to Be," and the bat that flew into the lodge at camp.

For the few of us who returned, we came to a whole different world of old and new friendships and the experiences that come along with our first year of high school. Even though this year's school work was a little more challenging, we all managed to have fun during Homecoming, Turnabout, Outdoor Ed. and Work Day. Altogether we make up the most amazing and psychotic group there has ever been. Our first year of high school was a definite blast. Watch out, North Shore . . . Here we come!

This year's sophomore class is full of new students and old. This combination makes for a great student body. With some encouragement, we have been very involved in social awareness projects. Our class trip to the Jonquil Hotel and the visit to the senior center are just two examples.

The classes are harder than last year but we're managing the work and finding time for a good laugh. Mr. Randolph seems to find his pleasure and variety by rearranging the desks, while Mrs. Smith won't let you sit down unless the desks are in perfect order. Even though we can't wait until summer, the year has been great.

A good word to describe this year's Junior class is extra-ordinary. The Junior class excels more than any in the history of North Shore. We all enthusiastically participate in many facets of our school. Whether it's through participating in sports, debating about the Presidential elections, wondering if a certain someone really has a perm, talking about our weekends, drinking Snapple, or just hanging out in the locker room, we Juniors do what ever floats our boats. We never forget about the PSAT's and not to mention the many hours of homework. With the great new additions to our class and the great other people, the Junior class will go down into history for being one of North Shore's greatest. Wait till we're SENIORS!

BACK ROW: Olivia Bellers, Richard Wu, Eric Gannon, Seth Coppock, Betty Fisher, Stephanie Crumpton, Lisa Rosen, Alexis Copland, Angeline Brown, Art Meyerhoff, Matt Martin. MIDDLE ROW: Alex Garcia, James Moses, Blake Gordon, Stefanie Freeman, Loren Berry, Kelli Stebel, Kathy Wolbach, Jon Hart, Gary Meltz, Benjie de la Fuente, Scott Shales, Bashir Muhammed. FRONT ROW: Alexandra Roginsky, Carrie Price, Kyky Knowles, Beth Jacobs, Erik Sosa, Ali Flint, Marianna Kats, Ilya Skukhman.

We are the SENIOR class. Need I say more? Of course. Being the wonderful people that we are, we have a strong tendency to talk about ourselves. As SENIORS, our greatness is fully appreciated as we touch the hearts of so many underclassmen. We survived yet another attempt to become closer through the famed Outdoor Ed. trips. Unlike the class before us, we wholeheartedly played Duck-Duck-Goose on Work Day. We take the small homeroom in stride by having extra fridges and microwaves for our pleasure. Looking back upon our years at North Shore, we've noticed a number of teachers have left after having our class as students. Odd. Anyway, come graduation, we'll all be a little weepy and a little happy that our days at North Shore have come to an end.

Exchange Students

This year we are fortunate to welcome Alex Garcia from Spain and Jo Snoeckx from Belgium. Unfortunately our other exchange student, Olivia Bellers, decided to go back to her homeland England after the first term. We miss Olivia dearly. Everyone turn to page 128 right now and remember lovely Olivia in all of her splendor. Sob . . . Anyway, back to our Jo and Alex. It was really enjoyable having them around. Though we know Americans have more culture than in Jo's little finger, seeing ourselves from the European perspective was quite interesting. Although it will be sad to see them leave, we're sure they're excited to return to their native land.

Lifers

Fourteen years is a long time to spend in one place. For lifers Greg Jacobs, Beth Jacobs, and Benjie de la Fuente, however, it may not be enough. We will remember our North Shore experience with fondness and warmth as we move on with our lives. Some of you may be wondering why Alison Flint is on the Lifer Page. Ali is almost a lifer. Since anyone who has been at North Shore so long must possess some sort of supernatural power, we thought it only fitting to include Ali, though she did escape for 2 years. 'Twas a happy fourteen years, but Graduation will bring forth tears as well as joy.

la dance de la vie.

So bye, bye, Miss American Pie

Thank you, Beloved Father for blessing my life with your love and grace. You blessed me with a beautiful life.

You have been part of my life for the past four years. I am not complete without you.

God has not created the spirit of fear, but the spirit of love, spirit of power, and spirit of sound mind. ITIN 1:7

Erwin Antonio

You have been more than a friend, you've been a brother.

My constant Luisa.
Never left my side and never will my heart.

Every step I take, I take it with you (God) along my side.

Godoy Gandara

Most beautiful Mom!

I haven't forgotten
you & I never will

Lord Father, I love you. Everything I do, I do for you.

No man has a greater heart than my three dads.

Loving Father!

The love shared among you two has reflected the love in our family.

Second Generation of Erwin and Luisa!

Mom, Luis, Thank you for giving me such a beautiful brother & sister.

WHAT ARE YEARS?

What is our innocence, what is our guilt? All are naked, none is safe. And whence is courage: the unanswered question, the resolute doubt,— dumbly calling, deafly listening—that in misfortune, even death, encourages others
and in its defeat, stirs the soul to be strong? He sees deep and is glad, who accedes to mortality and in his imprisonment rises upon himself as the sea in a chasm, struggling to be free and unable to be in its surrendering
finds its continuing.
So he who strongly feels,
behaves. The very bird, grown taller as he sings, steals his form straight up. Though he is captive, his mighty singing
says, satisfaction is a lowly thing, how pure a thing is joy.
This mortality,
this is eternity.

TO AN ATHLETE DYING YOUNG

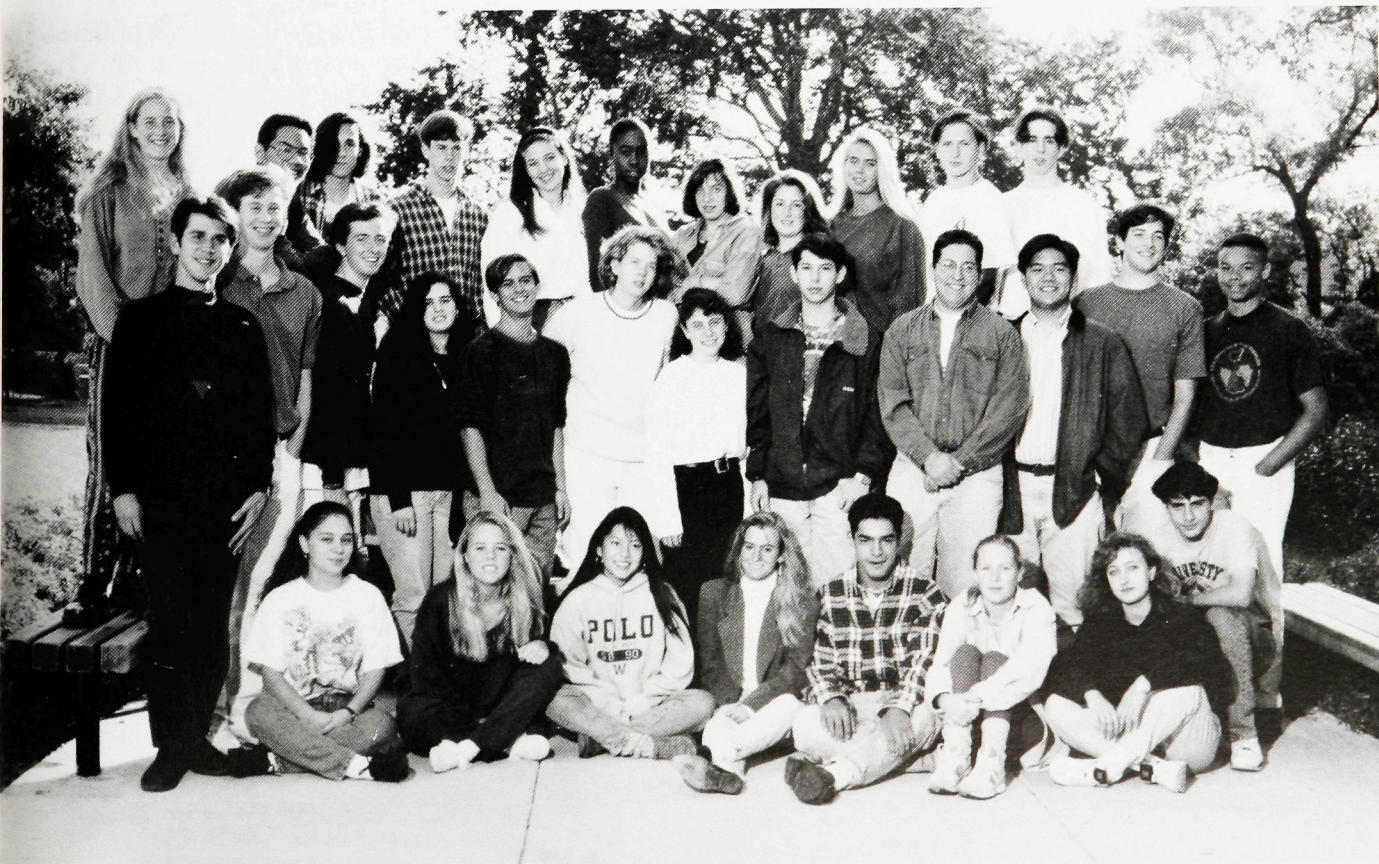

The time you won your town the race
 We chaired you through the market-place;
 Man and boy stood cheering by,
 And home we brought you shoulder-high.
 To-day, the road all runners come,
 Shoulder-high, we bring you home,
 And set you at your threshold down,
 Townsman of a stiller town.
 Smart lad, to slip betimes away
 From fields where glory does not stay
 And early though the laurel grows
 It withers quicker than the rose.
 Eyes the shady night has shut
 Cannot see the record cut,
 And silence sounds no worse than cheers
 After earth has stopped the ears;
 Now you will not swell the rout
 Of lads that wore their honors out,
 Runners whom renown outran
 And the name died before the man.
 So set, before its echoes fade,
 The fleet foot on the sill of shade,
 And hold to the low lintel up
 The still defended challenge-cup.
 And round that early-laureled head
 Will flock to gaze the strengthless dead,
 And find unwithered on its curls
 The garland briefer than a girl's.

The Class of 1993

Through the Years . . .

Editors' Notes

It has been said that what does not kill you makes you stronger.

The 1992-93 MIRROR staff has survived and now that the book is finished I must admit that it is quite a relief. There were many times that I doubted the MIRROR'S completion, but thanks to the help that I have gotten from many people, I can say that it is finally done.

First, I would like to thank Mr. Almquist and Mrs. Peters for their incredible amount of assistance to the staff. I would also like to thank all the members of the staff, my family, and just about everyone else who had to deal with me from about September to March.

There are so many other contributors who deserve a special thanks; Scott Shlaes, Seth Coppock, Elizabeth Graettinger, Katie Whittlesey, Tom Rankin, Mr. John Durbin, Richard Wu, Alexandra Roginsky, Stephanie Crumpton, and Jon Hart for his numerous additions to the Publications' Office.

Thank you all for your hard work and for cheering us all up at times. It was greatly appreciated and we hope you enjoy the 1992-93 MIRROR.

And for all those who will take over next year, especially Nat Durbin, Katie Davis, Catherine Kim and Carrie Goldstein, good luck in keeping your sanity.

—Stefanie

It's hard to explain what working on the Mirror these past years have meant to me. Considering the long hours in the office and the seemingly endless deadlines, one might say that it has at times been quite stressful. But beyond that, MIRROR '93 will remain something I am sincerely proud of.

Benjie and Betty: Thanks for the entertainment in the Publications' Office. Ten years from now we'll have to get together and see if any of our "questions" have changed. Many thanks to Stefanie for being my co-addict of Beverly's salads and for not bothering me too much about my lack of grammar rules. Finally, a big thank you to Amy Peters for her patience with our staff when things were kind of out of hand and for keeping me in line. Carrie, Katie, and Nat: Have fun next year and try not to freak out! 'Tis only good things that must always come to an end.

—Kelli

What fun it has been working on the last couple of yearbooks with this happy and generally friendly group of people. Special thanks to Stefanie, who has always shown more patience than can reasonably be expected of anyone. Kelli and Betty, our little "book" of questions has been a lot of fun. To Nat and whoever is on the staff next year, good luck! I will miss working on this fine publication.

What can I say but that it won't be the same old story at good old Diller Street without you guys (especially Seth). And to all those better times of the theater, and even those last-minute show crams from 1 p.m. to midnight. Working in Diller Street is certainly an experience (being left as this enormous understatement!), and I shall certainly remember!

And to those former '93 MIRROR staff members (who are now quickly regaining their sanity), we shall miss you immensely (and your help!). Stefanie, Benjie, Betty, Kelli and last, but not least, A.P. (Amy Peters). What a year, huh? The key word is "interesting" and the key phrase would be, "Where are my pictures?" Also my special thanks to Seth C., Betty, Dad, and especially Mr. Almquist for helping me print and develop the hundreds of pictures that it takes for the yearbook. But, alas, that is all behind us (for now), and I am looking forward to my already third year (many wonder how I'm able to keep the fragment of sanity left) on yearbook doing the MIRROR '94 with its staff (or lack thereof). So Carrie G., and Katie D., on to the MIRROR '94 and another "interesting" year on yearbook.

To all Graduating Seniors,

I want to wish you all the best of luck in whatever you choose to do, be it becoming a doctor, lawyer, or an artist. I know all of you will be fantastic at what you do.

I also want to thank you all for the wonderful memories which you have given me. I will treasure them all. You are all very intelligent, creative, young adults. Whatever you do, never lose the zest for life you all carry with you. Congratulations, Class of '93.

Love,
Irene Samples

Congratulations,
James and Alex.

Dear Alexandra,

You are now starting a new chapter in your life. We are all sure that you will succeed in college as well as anything else life has to offer. To say the least, you have always made us proud. We would say more, but there are no words which can describe how happy you have made us throughout the years. Now you are all grown up and moving on to college, but we are sure that your high school years will be forever remembered and cherished in your heart.

Congratulations! We wish you luck even though you won't need it.

Love, Mom, Dad, Eugene
